

March 22nd, 2020 Community Group Sermon Questions

“What we do when there’s nothing we can do defines what we believe about the goodness, care and sovereignty of God in our lives.”

Application question: Read Matthew 6:25-34 as a group. Ask the group what some of their first thoughts areas they reflect on the passage.

Application question: Anxiety is a liar – It only offers false solutions, makes false promises and offers false predictions. Go around the group and ask people how anxiety has lied to them. In other words what are some things that we worry about we shouldn’t be worrying about?

Application question: Full disclosure...who has a hording story they want to share with the group?

Application question: One of the solutions to anxiety is God-remembering. Ask people in the group to share the ways God has provided for them in the past. From salvation, to jobs, to spouses, to children, to physical and emotional healing, to freedom from addictions, etc. Now is the time to stack up those stones of remembrance! If you want more encouragement read Joshua 4:1-8.

Application question: Another solution to anxiety is prayer. Go around the group and ask people for prayer requests...and then pray for one another. Hint: Praying Scripture is also helpful and powerful!

Father...We know that what we do when there’s nothing we can do defines what we believe about Your goodness, care and sovereignty in our lives. So, Father help us to always remember the countless ways that you’ve provided for us and protected us. Thank you for your supernatural peace that transcends our understanding and most of all thank you for the gift of salvation that you’ve given us in Jesus and for our future hope that’s found in eternity with you. We ask all us this in the name of Jesus, Amen!
